Thursday 13 February 2014

Partnermeeting , Gornija Radgona-Radenci, Slovenia The project Danubenergy strongly relies on transnational cooperation by making use of the well-mixed team made up of researchers, planners, authorities, energy agencies and consultants. . The fourth international project meeting took place in Radenci on April 1st, 2nd and 3rd, and put a focus on different valorization approaches for biomasses and resources. After two years of project works it was the right time to evaluate, to which extent the budget structure fits to the needs arising from proper and efficient implementation. Each partner was given the occasion to discuss individual needs with the financial manager, while others had the opportunity to discuss upcoming technical issues with the relevant work package coordinators. In addition, there was a steering committee session. The time schedule and location selection for all remaining partner meetings and for a transnational conference were fixed. For all open points, a generally accepted to-do list was adopted.
